Chapter 1

Jesse's Photoshoot

"For goodness sakes, Jesse! Just look at the camera and it'll all be over."

"No way!" Jesse said. "Why couldn't this wait until Cassie's leg's healed?"

"We've gone over this a million times." His mom said in exasperation. "She just broke her leg yesterday and it's going to take at least six weeks to get the cast off. We don't have that much time to wait!"

"But"

"Enough buts! I've done everything I can to make you look like Cassie. Do you have any idea how hard it is to turn a girl's older brother into her twin sister?"

"Mom!"

"You may not understand it, but I worked miracles with hair extensions to get you to look like this. It's really a lot more than I should've done since it was your dumb dare that made her break her leg."

"She didn't have to take it."

"I know, but you deserve some blame to. Honestly, daring your sister to jump from the playground to the trampoline. Honestly."

"Can I take this off yet?"

"Nope. I need to get a few more photos. Can you at least try to smile? And put your hands like I showed you so we can really highlight the dress."

"Still can't believe I'm"

"There. We're done. Come here so I can unzip you."

"Finally!"

"Oh, come on. You were doing a favor for your poor injured sister." She kissed his forehead. "Take that dress off and sit down at the vanity. I've got some plans for your hair for the next dress."

"Next dress?"

"Now that I've got two dozen photos of my rough and tumble son in a pretty dress, I figured we'd work our way through all of Cassie's closet."

"What?"

"And not just her dresses. She's got some dance costumes that I bet you'd look just darling in!"

"Mom!"
