Princess Time

“Hey, Lance?” Isabelle poked her head into his room. Lance sighed. He just wanted to be left alone on a Friday night like tonight.

“What, Izzy?” He asked, looking up from his video game.

“Mom just wanted me to tell you she left, so you’re on call if we need anything.”

“Alright.” Lance said with a nod. “Close the door.”

“Oh, and one more thing?” Isabelle said. She began to sing. “It’s princess time, princess time, prissy sissy princess time.”

“Ha, ha. Very funny.” Lance said, rolling his eyes. His little sister could be so weird sometimes! Isabelle simply smiled and left him alone, returning downstairs to her slumber party with both of her best friends.

It could not have been more than ten minutes before Lance suddenly came into the living room in a yellow dress with ample petticoats that barely covered his frilly white tights-clad bottom. A yellow hairband sat on his head and he smiled at the shocked girls.

“Did someone request a princess?” It was still his voice, but more cheerful and almost musical. When Isabella looked close at her brother’s eyes, she could see him trapped inside, watching everything.

“Are you wearing boy undies?” Isabella asked curiously. To her delight, Lance giggled, seemingly unperturbed by the other girls recording him.

“A princess must always wear panties and I’m the prettiest princess of them all!” Isabella smiled as he punctuated his proclamation with a curtsey. Seeing his horrified eyes, she went up to him.

“It’s only temporary, brother.” She whispered. “Mom’s back Monday, so I’ll be sure to undo this before then.”
